Henry Beer

R. L. Stoller

1. Who made the gold - en sun rays; who gives us day and night?
2. Who set the hills in or - der; who made the wind - ing stream?
3. Who paints the leaves in au - tumn; who makes the grain to grow?
4. Wher - e'er we look or lis - ten, in day or star - ry night,

5

Who spreads a - broad the heav - ens; who made the stars so bright?
Who made the sun - ny hill - sides; who robes the wood - lands green?
Who gives re - fresh - ing show - ers; who makes the glist - 'ning snow?
There is an un - seen pres - ence. Have you not felt its might?

10

Who gives us spring and win - ter, the sum - mer and the fall?
Who dots the vale with flow - ers, which bloom so bright and fair?
Who taught the birds their fly - ing; who made their cheer - y call?
Con - si - der now these ques - tions, while on life's path you trod.

15

Who plants the grass - y mea - dows; who makes the trees grow tall?
Who gives the rose its fra - grance, the lil - ies scent so rare?
Who gave to man his rea - son; who set him o - ver all?
Some think it's on - ly na - ture, but I just know it's God!
